Murals

Experience the magical street art that Esperance has to offer by following this walking trail through town centre.

Aunty Joan's Dolly Mix

Artist: Anita Revel

The colourful mural on the walls of Auntie Joan's Dolly Mix perfectly captures the natural beauty of Esperance's unique plant life. Painted in a trompe-l'œil style, the mural features a Victorian dollhouse adorned with lush Australian flora in a deep, iridescent teal – a custom colour Anita created to match the mesmerizing waves of Hellfire Bay.

Kepa Kurl Maritime Mural

Artists: Jarrod Pearman and Jennell Reynolds/
Nannapa

The Kepa Kurl Maritime Mural celebrates the diverse maritime history of Esperance Bay. It represents the organisations and industries that have shaped this coastal community, from the Kepa Kurl Wudjari Nyungar people's enduring connection to the sea country, to the thriving tourism, transport, and fishing sectors. The mural captures the recreational use of the ocean and the contributions of the broader community, honoring Esperance's maritime heritage.

Esperance Scout Hall Kangaroos

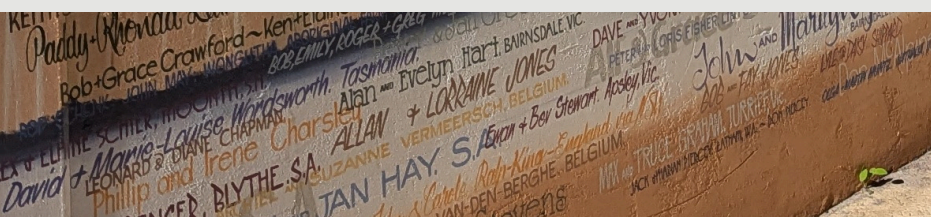

Artist: Esti Nagi

Hungarian-born artist Esti Nagy feels a deep connection with animals and nature, and her inquisitive kangaroos on the Esperance Scout Hall are a testament to this. Painted for the 2018 Edge of the Bay festival, Esti used three kangaroos from the local Esperance Roo Haven as her models.

“Old” Tanker Jetty

Artist: Phil Shelton

Take a leisurely stroll through Esperance's vibrant past with Phil Shelton's stunning mural. This beautifully detailed artwork brings to life the town's much-loved old Tanker Jetty, a symbol of community and coastal charm. Through Phil's brushstrokes, the spirit of this iconic landmark is thoughtfully preserved, offering a nostalgic glimpse into the heart of Esperance's heritage.
